The DREAM, The VISION, The HARVEST

Abandoned by his parents at age 6, he became a house slave and served 17 families over the next 10 years. He was forced to work on the dangerous streets of Nigeria selling goods or “hawking” to survive and help pay his way through school.

In his early 20’s, his village was attacked by Muslims. He was badly beaten, wounded, and left for dead. With nowhere to go, he made the long and fearful journey home, only to once again be rejected by his father.

He then traveled far away to his uncle’s in a city called Ibadan. It was then he decided all hope was lost and his only escape from the frightening memories and the agony of rejection was death by suicide. Then one night, in the middle of the night, his life would be forever changed. Come hear Peter Adigwe’s life changing story.
