

Dear Chapelites,

Sunday's Forecast

Sunday's forecast is for Outside Worship at 8:15, Sunday School at 9:15ish, and Inside Worship at 10:30.

Sunday's other forecast is for overnight snow followed by partly windy and mostly cold temperatures in the morning.

Out of concern for your preacher, some of you have wondered if we should cancel outdoor church this Sunday. I do not plan to cancel. I plan to lead outdoor worship.

Christmas Eve and a couple of Sunday mornings have been pretty cold, but they were not too cold. When does it become too cold? I don't know. I will only know when I experience it. At the minimum, I will greet you outside before church and then move inside for the sermon. That is Plan B. Right now, I plan to preach outside.

I live across the road, and I will be at Liberty Chapel to worship with anyone who comes. Before you even think about coming, you should evaluate the weather and the roads and decide what is prudent for you. (If the sheriff declares a Level 3 snow emergency and closes the roads, we will close church.)

You always have the option to worship at home on your sofa. 10:30 or later.

<https://www.youtube.com/c/LibertyChapelLC> We will celebrate communion tomorrow, so if you worship at home, please prepare your elements.

Stay safe and pray for one another.

See you (in person or online) Sunday!
Pastor Brad

Sunday, February 7

8 AM		9°	❄️ 8%	WNW 8 MPH	▼
9 AM		9°	❄️ 6%	WNW 8 MPH	▼
10 AM		9°	❄️ 5%	WNW 8 MPH	▼
11 AM		10°	❄️ 7%	WNW 9 MPH	▼
12 PM		11°	❄️ 4%	WNW 10 MPH	▼
1 PM		12°	❄️ 4%	WNW 11 MPH	▼

- February 6, 2021